SCHOOL DEPARTMENT.

MINNIE BARNUM, Editor.

No school in Mr. Law's room last Friday, there being a teachers examination at Port Huron.

The Physiology class was examined over the sympathetic system last week. Martin Menerey is again at school, after an absence of a few days.

The History class was examined over the administrations last week.

Bertha Beecher, of Mary Brown's room, is absent from school on account of sickness.

Twelve pupils of Mr. Law's room attended the teachers' examination at Port Huron last Friday and Saturday.

The pupils of seventh grade having passed a successful examination in the elementary grammar will now study Bodworth's grammar.

The pupils of the sixth grade have been having a final examination in History the past week.

Mary Chamberlin is again at school, after a short absence.

AS TO BREATHING.—A boy 14 years old, recently imported from Kentucky, handed the following in as a composition on "Breathing." The instruction was: "Tell all you can about breathing." He said: "Breath is made of air. We breathe with our lungs, our livers, and kidneys. If it wasn't for our breath we would die when we slept. Our breath keeps the life going through the nose when we are asleep. Boys that stay in a room all day should not breathe. They should wait until they get out doors. Boys in a room make bad, unwholesome air. They make carbonic acid. Carbonic acid is poisoner than mad dogs. A heap of soldiers was in a black hole in India, and a carbonic acid got in that there hole, and killed nearly every one afore morning. Girls kill the breath with corsets that squeeze the diaphragm. Girls can't holler or run like boys because their diaphragm is squeezed to much. If I was a girl I had rather be a boy, so I can run and have a great big diaphragm.—[Washington Star.

Queen Victoria is in possession of a curious needle. It was made at the celebrated needle factory at Redditch, and represents the columns of Trajan in miniature. This well-known Roman column is adorned with numerous scenes in sculpture, which immortalize Trajan's heroic action in war. On this diminutive needle scenes in the life of Queen Victoria are represented in relief, but so firmly cut and small that it requires a magnifying glass to see them. The Victoria needle can, moreover, be opened; it contains a number of needles of smaller size, which are equally adorned with scenes in relief.

Answers to Questions.

General Grant opened and closed the Centennial Exposition.

During Jackson's administration a split from the Republican (Democratic) party were so-called. At a certain military meeting in Tammany Hall, the lights were suddenly extinguished, but were quickly relighted by the "loco-foco" matches which several members of the Tammany club carried in their vest pockets. The principles of this party briefly expressed, were as follows: "The laws protect all." "The repeal of bad laws." "Men must contribute to the necessities of society." "Against paper money, monopolies and assumed powers."

As in many other places there had been a number of murders committed in Cincinnati in the past year or two. Owing to the wealth and influence of the criminals, or other causes, they had not been adequately punished. In the trial of one Barnes, a murderer of the worst type, who after a force of a trial was convicted of manslaughter only. As there were about twenty murderers in jail awaiting trial, public feeling became so intense that a meeting of 10,000 of the most eminent citizens met for the purpose of protesting against the manner in which murderers were being shielded from their just deserts. After the adjournment of the meeting the lower element of the crowd made a rush on the jail, but were repulsed by the militia, and failing in their attempt on the jail they turned their attention to the court house, which they burned with all the records of the country. This state of affairs continued for three or four days, but was at last quelled by the state military.

How is the blood purified? The blood is purified by our lungs in breathing pure air, or by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

They Don't Know 'em.

People down about Romeo and Mt. Clemens hardly understand just what the P. of I. are; or if they do, they must be credited with having a large majority of bravery in times of peril. This is what the Mt. Clemens Monitor says about them:

Certain philanthropists said to live at Port Huron, have invaded Macomb county in search of fools and their money. They are attempting to organize lodges of a secret order that is called Patrons of Industry. Ostensibly it is a scheme to benefit those who enter into it by securing for them the possibility of buying goods at a slight advance on cost, but really it is a scheme to transfer money from the pockets of the fools to the pockets of the philanthropists. One merchant is selected in every community and upon him the Patrons confer their patronage in consideration of certain engagements by him. In the end everybody is lower except the philanthropists, who by means of deals with merchants, fees, charges, etc., make money.

The organizers are now at work in the north of the county. If they appear down here, they will be shot with rock salt. Southern Macomb county farmers are not of the "summer coon" variety.

Lippincott's Monthly Magazine.

The recent death of Selma Dolore, the famous burlesque actress, lends a pathetic interest to the novel of "Bella Memoria," which opens the March number of LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE. The novel, it will be remembered, had a curious history. Written originally for the New York World, it was accepted by that paper, but the MS. was lost or stolen in some inexplicable way. Mine Dolore then rewrote it, and when completed offered it to LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE, where it was at once accepted. It is an exceptionally stirring and dramatic story, the scene of which is laid partly in Russia and partly in England, the plot concerning itself with the doings of the revolutionists and of the Russian secret police. An article of unusual literary interest is John Sartain's "Reminiscences of Ed. Allan Poe." Mr. Sartain was the editor of Sartain's Magazine, in which "The Bells" originally appeared, and he takes exception to some of the statements made by Richard Henry Stoddard in the January number. John Habington concludes his "At Last: Six Days in the Life of an Ex-Teacher" in a bright and amusing manner. Charlotte Adams tells "How I Succeeded in Literature," an article written in the same brisk, dashing unconvictional style as the now famous sketch which stirred up a hornet's nest in New York literary society. C. Davis English has some sensible words on "The Apotheosis of Travel." The Hundred Questions and the other departments are up to their usual level of excellence. Poems are contributed by Wilson K. Welsh, Edgar Fawcett and Elliott Coues.

A touching "In Memoriam" of Selma Dolore, by E. Heron Allen, who has been her steadfast friend and admirer, fittingly concludes the table of contents.

Those who desire that the half-fare excursion from this place to Detroit during Floral Exhibition week, April 2, 3, 4, and 5, should be so arranged that it will not be necessary to return the same day, but allow of a two or three days stop over, should send a postal card at once to this effect to Mr. George E. King, the secretary of the R. R. Passenger Agents Association, at his office in the Adams Building, Chicago, Ill. This 4-days exhibition will be the most notable floral event that has ever occurred in Michigan. It is for the benefit of 21 of the city charities who will share equally in the results.
